This just came in.

First, read the NGO letter and the Urban Agency letter. Then skim the rest.

This will be hard to ignore.

Tom –

Attached are several documents, which were released today, regarding a portfolio-based conceptual alternative for BDCP:

- The portfolio-based conceptual alternative
- A cover letter from conservation and business groups
- A cover letter from urban water agencies
- A press release from conservation and business groups
- A fact sheet describing the benefits of this approach, including a summary of proposed investments.

In addition, here are links to:

- A blog by Barry Nelson explaining this approach in more detail.
- A blog by Kate Poole describing the environmental benefits of this approach.

We look forward to discussing this alternative with you soon.
